

The last level of critical thought is Creating. At this level, students build on what they have learned to create new material. This level requires all the skills from the previous levels. Activities with creation as a component are:

- Writing and appearing in a play or a role play
- Interviewing a student who is taking the part of a government official or a historical character
- Writing a story
- Producing a graphic

Developing a multimedia presentation