

Evaluating

The fifth level of critical thought is Evaluating. Knowledge influences decision-making and further action. In order to form reasoned opinions, English language learners evaluate consequences, both potential and actual. Activities that incorporate this process include:

- Prioritizing needs
- Evaluating positions after hearing all sides of the argument
- Determining solutions to problems

Integrating and possibly changing previous beliefs by considering new information